throughout the District of Columbia, beyond participants with disabilities. Successful applications will consider a broad definition of “accessibility” by addressing financial, geographic, demographic, cultural and developmental access. For more information, applicants may access the complete text of the ADA here:

Due to the quick deadline and turnaround for this grant program, there will be no live technical assistance workshops. HumanitiesDC will publish a prerecorded guidance video for prospective applicants. Applicants should focus on describing their organization’s immediate needs as concisely and efficiently as possible.

Application Review Process:

Qualified applications are submitted to a review panel of volunteers with connections to the Washington, DC-area humanities, arts, and culture community. These panelists will score the proposals assigned to them based on an established rubric that closely aligns with the questions in the application. HumanitiesDC staff will produce a slate of proposals recommended for funding based on the panelists’ aggregate scores. This slate will be submitted to the full board for approval. All panelists, staff and board members are expected to remain impartial as they undertake their respective parts in the evaluation process. HumanitiesDC requires that all involved recuse themselves from review of any application that presents a personal or professional conflict of interest, and panelists must sign a statement acknowledging that they will adhere to this policy.

Risk Management Assessment:

HumanitiesDC may elect not to fund applicants with management or financial instability that affects their ability to implement the terms and conditions of the award (2 CFR §200.205). Applications that have received a favorable objective review are reviewed for other considerations that include past performance, as applicable; cost analysis of the project budget; assessment of management systems; continued applicant eligibility; and compliance with any public policy requirements. You may be asked to submit additional programmatic or administrative information (such as an updated budget or supporting documentation) or to undertake certain activities (such as negotiation of an indirect cost rate) in anticipation of an award. However, such requests do not guarantee that an award will be made. Following review of all applicable information, HumanitiesDC’s grants staff will determine whether an award can be made, if special conditions are required, and what level of funding is appropriate. Award decisions are discretionary and are not subject to appeal to any HumanitiesDC official or board.

Notification and Payment of Awards:

HumanitiesDC will aim to notify applicants of their status (funded or denied) no more than 30 days after the application deadline. Grant award recipients will receive an official grant award letter through the online system which will include a link to submit acceptance forms and to sign the grant conditions. Applicants denied funding at the first deadline will be reconsidered at the second deadline, and will not need to resubmit their application.

Awards are disbursed via direct deposit, and all awarded applicants are required to submit an automated clearing house (ACH) form which is made available through the online grants portal.
